Group COO, Omega Hospitals sees further growth in private healthcare

Joining the just growing private healthcare industry in Hyderabad 19 years ago at an entry-level, Srikanth Namburi, COO, Omega Hospitals, has been part of the growth of the private healthcare industry. To an extent, he drove it as well. During an interaction, he recalls the changes over the two-decade period. "When I first joined Care Hospital in 2002, there were just four corporate hospitals in Hyderabad. Like Care, Apollo, Global and KIMS. But today, every five kilometres you will find a corporate hospital. That is reflective of the growth of the private healthcare industry," he points out. Moreover, the evolution of the private healthcare industry from specialist hospitals - a particular hospital known for a speciality - to 'all-under-one-roof' super speciality hospitals is the metamorphosis. In this line, Hyderabad has also emerged as a hub where hitherto unheard-of heart, liver, and kidney transplants are being done, according to Namburi. Also, patients from many African and West Asian countries are coming to Hyderabad for treatment earning it the epithet of 'Centre of Medical Tourism'.

Speaking on his role in the growth of Omega Hospitals - which has earned itself a name in cancer cure and treatment - over his nine-year association, he says, "Joined as a marketing head handling just one hospital. Now we have seven branches in South India and one in Dehradun. We have another branch coming up in Gachibowli. It is two-lakh sq. feet, 500-bed hospital with all first of its kind facilities so that no patient needs to be transported anywhere for any test or procedure. I wouldn't call it my achievement alone, but a collective team effort. "From one hospital with 500 employees, we have grown to 5,000 employees," he further asserts.
